

Hiking destination	Difficulty guide	Distance or outing length	Best reason to go in fall
Loree Forest, The Blue Mountains	Easy–moderate	Approximately 5 km loop; approach can affect total distance	Forest colour with a Georgian Bay viewing opportunity
Devil’s Glen Provincial Park, Glen Huron	Moderate–strenuous on longer hiking routes	Route-dependent; check the current closure before planning	Forested gorge, escarpment scenery and a viewing platform
Petun Conservation Area, The Blue Mountains	Moderate	Published Bruce Trail club route options of approximately 4.2 km or 8.4 km; confirm current routing	Woodland colour, rocky terrain and escarpment character
Old Baldy Conservation Area, near Kimberley	Easy–moderate; rugged, steep sections near the cliffs	Approximately 15 minutes to the lookout, one way; allow time to return	A sweeping view over Beaver Valley
Pretty River Valley Provincial Park	Moderate–strenuous, depending on route	Choose your distance; the access side trail is 510 m one way before joining the Bruce Trail	An immersive forest-and-valley outing
Kolapore Uplands, near Ravenna	Moderate on the described loop; other routes vary	A documented 8 km loop within a much larger network	Wilderness-style forest walking and escarpment rock scenery
Scenic Caves Nature Adventures	Moderate; uneven ground and stairs	Approximately 10–25 minutes to the suspension bridge, one way; longer visits vary	Elevated forest and Georgian Bay views from a paid attraction
Georgian Trail, Collingwood–Thornbury–Meaford	Easy grade; longer distances add difficulty	Choose a short out-and-back; the entire trail is approximately 33–34 km one way	A flexible, gentler fall walk through wooded and shoreline settings
